

GREAT SOLDIER IS HONORED

Imposing Ceremonies At Logan's Monument.

SIX STATES REPRESENTED IN THE DEMONSTRATION.

Veterans Who Had Followed the Hero
of Atlanta to Glorious Victory, and Youths Taught to Revere His Name,
March In a Magnificent Parade—
Thousands of Citizens Witness the Unveiling

Chicago, July 22.—The center of Chicago, of Illinois and of half the west
this morning was a little mound on the lake front just high enough to catch the first rays of the rising sun,
its summit crowned by a soldier of bronze astride a horse of bronze wrapped
in the folds of this nation's flag.
As the clocks struck 1 a little boy

GEN. JOHN A. LOGAN.

who bears a name that is indelibly
written on the pages of this nation's history, at once the darkest and the most glorious, tugged at a cord. The flags fell apart. The deep-throated roar of cannon were loosed in official salute to the memory of a great soldier
and in honor of a great nation
blessed by the life of a great man.

Logan the soldier, Logan the hero
of Atlanta, appeared silhouetted
against the sky as if galloping through the smoke of a battlefield—the very Genius of War embodied in skillful portraiture of a man who was once real flesh and blood. Acres of massed humanity, catching the idea expressed in the artist's creation and full of appreciation for the achievements of the man portrayed, mingled their cheers
with the booming of guns.

In the center of that convocation
were the white-haired widow of him
who is honored, his children and his grandchildren. Around them were the men who marched and fought with Logan, men who knew him beside the hearthstone of his own home, in the national legislative halls, in private and public assemblage, and who, so knowing him, loved and revered him.
Their heads nodded assent while orators eulogized his life and his work.

Then the trumpets sounded the advance. Veterans of the war passed in review, lifting their hats in salute to the bronze replica of him who was their first commander-in-chief. First among them were the men of his own regiment who followed him through smoke and fire from Belmont to Atlanta, and at their head was borne the flag which waved beside him until bullet and shell had left nothing but

MRS. JOHN A. LOGAN.

grimy ribbons fluttering from a scarred
staff. Between detachments of the old "boys in blue" marched a band
of confederate survivors as a sign that Logan was a soldier in praise of whose name all old soldiers, north and south, can unite. Battalions of the regular army and the national guard, governors of states and societies purely civic, passing in review, marked the range of Logan's influence—bounded by no state lines, but national in the pursuits of peace as well as in the practice of war.

Everything that could be done to make of this occasion a memorable event was done. There was keen regret that President McKinley could not be present. Official business stood in the way of his coming, as it has stood in the way of many another who expected to be here. Postmaster General Gary sent word to Postmaster Gordon
that he would be unable to leave Washington. The same message came from Secretary Gage. The official duties of the latter are so bound up with the legislation now pending before congress

that he could not be expected to tear
himself away.

The same influences held Senators
Cullom and Mason in Washington.
The senior senator served in the senate
with Logan, and was his warm personal friend. He so fully intended to come that he prepared an address
for the afternoon. With a tariff bill pending, and at almost the final voting
stage, and with every Republican vote
needed, he could not get away. Senator Mason was in much the same predicament. He was specially anxious to get here, because he was one of the famous 103 who sent Logan to the senate, and those men held a reunion.

Secretary Alger was the only representative of President McKinley's cabinet on the platform.

Six states and one territory were represented in the parade—Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, West Virginia, Iowa,
Nebraska and Oklahoma. Governor Drake of Iowa could not come, but he was represented by his staff, and the state was further represented by a company of militia.

Business was suspended generally all over the city. Most of the wholesale houses were closed, also the railroad offices and the city hall, county building and postoffice.

It is estimated that the following number of men were in line: G. A. R., 5,000; United States troops, 2,500; National guards, 7,000; Knights Templar, 1,500; Knights of Pythias, 750; Postoffice employees, 1,200; miscellaneous,
1,000.

The ceremonies at the monument
were as follows: "The Assembly," trumpeters (Phinney's United States Band). Prayer, Dr. Arthur Edwards.
Music, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean." Presentation of monument to the State of Illinois by Henry W.
Blodgett, President of the board of commissioners. Unveiling of monument by John A. Logan III., "Little Jack," age 5 years. Salute of artillery.
Music, "Battle Scenes of the War."

Acceptance on behalf of the state of Illinois, Governor John R. Tanner.
Oration, George R. Peck. Music, "American Republic." Address, Music.
At 12:30 o'clock Major General John R. Brooke of the United States army,
his staff and a company of regulars,
arrived in front of the Auditorium
Annex. By that hour all the governors of states who are in Chicago had arrived at that hotel. These governors
and Mrs. John A. Logan, Mr. and Mrs.
John A. Logan, Jr., and three children, Major and Mrs. William F. Tucker and children and the other members of the Logan party were escorted from the hotel south in Michigan boulevard to the stand in front of the monument.
The governors occupied seats on the speakers' platform during the exercises,
and then such as cared to appear in the parade left and took their assigned po-

GOVERNOR TANNER.

sitions in line. The exercises at the monument began promptly at 1 o'clock
p. m.

The figure of General Logan is of heroic size and represents the "Black Eagle" at the supreme moment when the battle of Atlanta was at its height
and just as Logan was assuming command of the army of the Tennessee.
The engagement on the banks of Peach Tree creek was one of the bloodiest of the war. General McPherson, who previously had charge of the army of the Tennessee, had been flanked by the confederate forces and the First division was on the verge of a panic.
McPherson had been shot down by a confederate sharpshooter as he was taking observations on the skirmish line and the leadership of the almost broken union lines had fallen upon Logan. With the battle flag in his hand, under a storm of bullets, Logan
rode down the line, his black hair wa-ying under the fluttering tuft. Logan was a favorite among his men and the inspiration of his presence rallied the union troops in a successful counter
charge upon the enemy.

Governor Tanner rode a white horse
at the head of the Illinois National Guard. It was a big animal, with plenty of spirit and action, and enabled the governor to give his constituents a chance to view the horsemanship
that made him one of the conspicuous figures of the Grant parade in New York last spring.

Since the Debs strike there never
has been so many soldiers of the regular army in this city as took part in the parade. There were three regiments of infantry, and four of cavalry.
The Illinois National Guard, three brigades in strength, marched. There were nine regiments, three troops of cavalry, and two batteries of artillery

VOTE IS EXPECTED IN ONE MORE DAY

NO DELAY LIKELY ON THE TARIFF MEASURE.

Debate Is Being Rushed—Protection Act Liable to Be a Law Before the Sun Sets Friday—Adjournment
of Congress Will Immediately Follow.

Washington, July 22.—The belief is that before the sun sets on Friday the tariff bill will have become a law.
There is no formal agreement to this effect, but both Senators Jones and White, who have been leading the opposition to the bill, have expressed the opinion that the vote would not be postponed beyond that time.

Senator Allison also stated that while he still considered a vote possible today he felt confident it would not be postponed beyond Friday. In the event that the bill is passed as predicted, final adjournment is expected on Saturday.

The senate concluded the formal
reading of the tariff conference report. Early in the day Mr. Jones (Ark.)
made a contest against the conference committee on the ground that it had exceeded its authority in so amending
the paragraph relating to printing
paper as to place a retaliatory duty bounty on wood pulp. His point of order was debated at much length, and finally overruled by Vice-President Hobart. This removed the only obstacle thus far encountered by the report.

The formal reading of the conference
report was completed at 5:30 o'clock
and the senate at once went into executive session, adjourning soon after.

Short Session of the House.

Washington, July 22.—The house
Wednesday passed a joint resolution requesting the president to make such investigations as will elicit all the facts in reference to the restrictions
put upon the sale of American tobacco in foreign countries under what is known as the "Regie" or government contracts. It also authorizes the president to enter into negotiations with governments of those countries, with a view to obtaining a modification of these restrictions. Representative Linney of North Carolina introduced a bill to reduce the tax on distilled spirits to 70 cents a gallon.

No Action Is Taken.

Washington, July 22.—The senate committee on foreign relations Wednesday discussed briefly the bill introduced by Senator Morgan for the annexation of Hawaii, but decided to postpone further consideration of it while the annexation treaty is still pending.

SEVEN DEAD.

Disaster in the Winchester Repeating Arms Plant at New Haven.

New Haven, Conn., July 22.—Four
women and three men were killed Wednesday by an explosion in the loading department of the armory of the Winchester Arms company. Four other persons were taken to the hospital badly injured. The names of the dead are: William F. Baumer, Mrs.
Mary Baumeister, Miss Josie Brennan,
Miss Ida Brown, William Hill, Miss
Tracy Conroy. Edward Bardeoff died at the hospital.

Fatally injured: George Bardeoff.
In the loading-room were employed 150 hands, two-thirds of them girls or women. The entire force was at work when the explosion took place. Forty feet of the side of the building was blown out and hurled many feet, and fragments of human bodies were scattered about. All available physicians, the fire department, the police, the ambulance and hospital corps were speedily summoned. Two of the bodies had been decapitated. Others had been partially torn asunder, and still others had been dismembered. The incident is said to have been the result of carelessness.

To Take Bartley to Prison.

Omaha, Neb., July 22.—Sheriff Mc-Donald has notified ex-State Treasurer Joseph S. Bartley that on Friday of this week he will have to leave the county jail for the state penitentiary to enter upon his sentence of twenty years' imprisonment for the embezzlement of $151,000 of the money of the state of Nebraska.

Fifteen More Mines to Close.

Columbus, Ohio, July 22.—President Ratchford on Wednesday received a telegram from Organizers Dilcher and Weber at Montgomery, W. Va., stating that the miners at 15 miles in that district at a mass meeting had decided to join the strikers, and would quit work
at once.

Receiver Is Appointed.

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 22.—After doing business for seven years and loaning money on farms in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, and Wisconsin, the Indiana Farmers' Loan and Savings association was placed in the hands of a receiver on the application of its president, R. C. Bell.

Assembly Meets at Bay View.

Bay View, Mich., July 22.—The Bay View Chautauqua Assembly opened last night with a concert by the faculty of the Conservatory of Music.

THE MINERS NEED RATCHFORD'S HELP

PRESIDENT OF COAL MINERS
GOES TO WEST VIRGINIA.

Strike There Is a Failure—Eugene V.
Debs Sends Discouraging Reports
To National Headquarters—Prominent Operator Says the Men Were Justified in Striking.

Braidwood, Ill., July 22.—The mines
now working in Illinois, as far as can be learned, are Fulton county, Kewanna, Gilchrist and a few others in the Rock Island district, Lincoln, Decatur and a limited number of small concerns, not classed as shipping
mines south of the Baltimore & Ohio line from East St. Louis to Vincennes, except the Belleville district,
where the principal mines are still working. Organizers have just reached that field, and report everything favorable to a complete suspension. On President Carson's return from Columbus he will personally take charge
of affairs in that field.

Columbus, O., July 22.—Clouds came athwart the miners' sky Wednesday,
creating a situation so dark that National President Ratchford deserted
headquarters at midnight and went to West Virginia to assist the discouraged organizers. Eugene V. Debs is in a state of revolt against the alleged parsimony of Mr. Ratchford and the miners' organization. He has announced his intention of returning to Columbus for a plain talk with headquarters. He will charge bad management and ask for funds with which to pay at least personal expenses.

Sovereign has already returned from Pocahontas disheartened, and, with Debs and Mahon disgruntled, the situation is not encouraging. Reports from West Virginia indicate that the organizers are not making rapid progress.
Sovereign's abrupt departure is accounted for by the fact that he is establishing Knights of Labor headquarters at Fort Wayne, and must attend to an accumulation of mail. According to Mr. Ratchford, nothing of public interest was transacted by the national executive board, which concluded a three-days' session at noon Wednesday. President Carson returned to Illinois to keep the miners in that section in line,
and Secretary Kennedy went to Indiana
for a similar purpose. District President Dolan, of Pittsburgh, went back to work on De Armit's men, and Farms,
of Ohio, and Knight, of Indiana, went to Coopers, W. Va. Ex-President Penn, of Linton, Ill., called at headquarters to offer his services. He reports that all the men at Linton are out, and that they are living on garden truck, berries
and fish. A check for $500 was received in Wednesday's mail from National Secretary McGuire, of the carpenters and joiners.

President Ratchford said before leaving for West Virginia that all statements to the effect that the strike was not progressing favorably could be liberally discounted, as they were evidently inspired by West Virginia operators or sympathizers.

Says Miners Are Justified.

St. Louis, Mo., July 22.—Colonel John Lambert, millionaire vice president of the Joliet Consolidated Steel and Wire Company, has written a letter here in which he says that the outrageous condition of the miners is an indictment of our boasted civilization. He says that the whole trouble is due to the competition of operators, who have forced market prices below the market
line. Miners are justified in resisting slow starvation, and the sympathy of the people and also the manufacturers
is with them.

Striking Miners Arrested.

Pana, Ill., July 22.—Delegations of striking miners from Pana and Mo-weaqua, on their way to Coffeen, to induce the miners now working to come out, practically captured an Illinois Central freight train at Oconee, Wednesday. The trainmen called for help, and it was sent on a special train, and
several of the strikers were arrested.
The miners intend marching over the country to all the southern mining points and getting out the men. The arrest of the miners has caused great excitement in Pana and Moweaqua.

Illinoisans Ask Arbitration.

Springfield, Ill., July 22.—The officials and employees of the Springfield
Iron Company, operating the old north shaft; the Springfield Coal Mining and Tile Company, the Springfield Cooperative Company, and the Black Diamond Coal Company, have filed a petition with Edward Ridgely, of the state board of arbitration to arbitrate
between them as regards wages and the fulfillment of existing contracts.

Little Disturbance in Indiana.

Indianapolis, July 22.—Commissioners
Connor and Terhune, appointed by Governor Mount to inquire into reported destitution among the striking miners, have proceeded far enough to learn that there is little real destitution in the mining districts, and what
there is results from a predisposition for idleness rather than from the strike.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 22.—Governor
Drake's condition is slightly improved, but he is still unable to leave his room.

JAPAN PAPERS FOR PEACE.

Proposed Annexation of Hawaiian Islands Commented On.

Vancouver, B. C., July 22.—The Canadian Pacific steamship Empress of India arrived Wednesday from the orient, having made a speedy passage.
She brings the following advices:

According to the Japanese paper
Kokumin, Mr. Buck, the United States minister, has brought with him instructions to maintain as pacific an attitude as possible between Japan and the United States. The paper remarks that this is as it should be, and it would be a great pity to interrupt the friendly relations which have hitherto prevailed between America and Japan,
especially over such a paltry thing as Hawaii.

Maccabees in Session.

Port Huron, Mich., July 22.—The Supreme Tent of the Knights of Maccabees is in session here. Delegates are present from nearly every state in the Union, and also a large number from Canada. The following officers were elected Wednesday: Supreme commander, D. P. Markey, Port Huron,
Mich.; supreme lieutenant commander,
J. B. McDaniel, Buffalo, N. Y.; supreme finance keeper, C. D. Thompson, Port Huron, Mich.; supreme medical examiner, R. E. Moss, Elmira, N. Y.; supreme chaplain, George H. Trepany,
New Carlisle, Ind.

The Lady Maccabees of the World, also in session, elected Lillian M. Hollister, Detroit, Mich., supreme commander.

Map Out a Campaign.

New York, July 22.—The executive committee of the "national" democratic party, the gold wing of the party,
met today at 62 William street, in the office of William D. Bynum, chairman of the national committee, and ex-
officio chairman of the executive committee. At the close of the meeting
Chairman Bynum said that after a discussion of the matter of assisting the states of Ohio, Kentucky and Iowa in their campaigns, it was finally decided to assist the state campaign committees with prominent speakers of national reputation. An appeal will be made to all prominent speakers who participated in the campaign last fall
for Palmer and Buckner.

Great Britain Wakes Up.

Vancouver, B. C., July 22.—The British government is sending a much stronger patrolling force than usual to the Behring sea sealing fisheries. Already two gunboats, the Wild Swan,
1,200 tons, and the Pheasant, 800 tons,
have sailed for Behring Sea, and they will be followed in a few days by the Amphion, a cruiser of 5,000 tons and ten guns. Besides these vessels others are to be detached from the China
fleet, one of them being the Rainbow,
a modern cruiser of 4,000 tons and eight guns.

Fears for Sherman.

Washington, July 22.—The illness of Secretary Sherman is proving more serious than was at first anticipated. The cold which he contracted by standing
too near an electric fan last Saturday
seems to have disarranged his whole system. Dr. Tabor Johnson, the family physician, said it was useless to think of the secretary resuming his duties at the state department this week or in the immediate future. Dr.
Johnson will insist upon Mr. Sherman
taking a change of air and a rest.

Severe Storms in England.

London, July 22.—Various sections of England were visited Wednesday
by terrific thunder-storms. In the northern part of London floods
have occurred, stopping railway traffic and much damage was done. Two boys were killed by lightning at Ipswich.
Floods have also occurred in Essex, Birmingham, and Warwickshire. A boy was killed by lightning at Rhymsey, in Monmouthshire, and many persons were injured there and in other places.

Indiana Capitol in Bad Shape.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 22.—The custodian of the state capitol recently noticed some decay in the stone work,
and an expert was employed to go over the building. His report says that the wall at one entrance will be almost destroyed in two years if not repaired
at once, and that the lintels of most of the windows of the building have dropped nearly an inch, while several blocks of stone in the walls have been practically destroyed by the action of water.

Says No Alliance Exists.

Madrid, July 22.—The Epoca says:
"Senor Canovas del Castillo, the premier, states that the report of an alliance between Spain and Japan is incorrect. The most cordial relations exist between the two powers, but the understanding does not extend further.
He adds: 'It was never more necessary
than now for the government to consider what reforms ought to be introduced in Cuba.'"

Working Full Time.

St. Louis, July 22.—For the first time in four years full time is being worked at the Iron Mountain railroad shops at De Soto, Mo. Full time is ten hours a day for six days a week. During the last four years the men have only worked from forty to forty-eight hours
per week.

Sultan Still Dodging.

Constantinople, July 22.—The Sultan has issued an irade apparently accepting the Thessalian frontier line as fixed by the military attaches of the powers, with reservations.

CURRENCY MESSAGE TO BE SENT SOON

PRESIDENT WAITS ONLY FOR TARIFF BILL.

Statement of His Views on the Financial Question Will Be Laid Before Congress Very Soon—Opinions of a Delegate To Bi-Metallic Conference.

Washington, July 22.—The president will send a currency commission message to congress immediately after the tariff bill is signed.

This announcement was made
today by those in a position
to know, and there is very little doubt as to the program.

New York, July 22.—President R.
Benjamin Andrews, of Brown University, who recently returned from Europe,
where he has studied the trend of bimetallism, spoke on the subject for the first time since making his new inquiries. On the proposed conference he said that in the first place there was really no need of a conference in order
to establish or to re-establish the gold
value of silver in the commercial world.
"If the United States were to insert in the Bland act the omitted clause providing for the free coinage of silver,"
he said, "international bimetalism
would be accomplished, for the other nations would have to follow the lead
of this country."

THE BASEBALL REPORT.

Results of Yesterday's Games Played in the Various Leagues.

Chicago jumped two flights downward yesterday. In a game of free hitting and liberal errors the Phillies won, being the first team since Louisville to win a series. By their victory the Quakers regained their post as the rear guard of the first division. Louisville passed the Colts by beating Washington twice, and Brooklyn moved ahead by not playing. The five clubs from Philadelphia to Chicago are closely bunched. Boston continued its onward march by downing the Reds.
New York took two in an afternoon
from the Browns. Scores:

San Francisco, Cal., July 22.—The

THE PIONEERS MEET IN ANNUAL PICNIC

MAYFLOWER PARK.

Hon. A. A. Jackson Address as President of the Association—Hon. E. W. Keyes, William Smith, Hon. D. F. Sayre, J. C. P. Porter, and Others Speak—Large Crowd Attends.

Rock county pioneers met in force at Mayflower Park yesterday, the event being the annual picnic of the Early Settlers' Association. The attendance was large, both steamers being in service, while many people drove to the grounds. The Y. M. C. A. band furnished the music, and the program began at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. E. H. Pence invoked the blessing, and President A. A. Jackson was the first speaker. He said:

"Our gathering here today may, in some sense, be regarded as a recognition of the fact that we have just closed the sixth decade of the history of Wisconsin.

"Only a few weeks ago the sixtieth anniversary of the coronation of the queen of England was celebrated with great pomp and splendor. It was fitting, indeed, that this anniversary of the coronation of Queen Victoria should be so enthusiastically observed, not only by all English speaking people, but by all nations, for no reign of king or queen has been more prosperous or more beneficent than this remarkable reign of sixty years.

"On that interesting and historic occasion much was said and written of the remarkable growth and development of the English empire, along both material and intellectual lines. Much that was said and written in this regard was fully justified by the facts.

"It is a matter of rejoicing with us, that in the last six decades the English race has come to so wide an influence for good throughout the world and it gave us great pleasure that President McKinley in extending the congratulations of this nation, so fully voiced the kindly feelings of this people toward England's great queen and her people.

"This magnificent celebration of the sixtieth coronation day of Queen Victoria was, in a small way, a parallel in the history of our own state, and we may in some sense regard this as a celebration of sixty years of rule by the people of the state of Wisconsin.

"In 1836, the Congress of the United States passed an act organizing the territory now embracing in our state, and other territory, into a separate territorial government, by the name of Wisconsin, the name of one of its important rivers.

"A governor of this new territory was appointed, who, by proclamation, proceeded to call an election of thirteen members for the council and twenty-six members for the House of Representatives, which was to constitute the legislature of the new territory.

"The election was held on the second Monday of October, 1836. The first session of the territorial legislature commenced its session in Belmont, in this state, on the 25th day of October, 1836, and was continued into the month of December.

"In 1837 the practical life of the territory, under the laws enacted by its legislature, began.

"The state government was organized in 1848. The history of the territory and state of Wisconsin has, therefore, run parallel with the reign of the great English Queen. While the English people have great reason for rejoicing over the growth and development of the great English nation in the last sixty years, we also have great reason for rejoicing over the wonderful growth and development of this commonwealth, both materially and intellectually during the same period of time. A few figures will demonstrate this:

"In 1836 the population of that portion of the territory now embraced in this state, was about 11,000. In the last sixty years it has grown to about 2,000,000.

"The actual value of the property in 1836 in what is now the state of Wisconsin, was comparatively small. But in the last sixty years it has grown to be about one billion of dollars ($1,000,000,000). The number of farms in the same territory sixty years ago was small. But there are now over 150,000 farms in this state. The agricultural products in 1837 were also small. But in 1895 they exceeded $150,000,000. In 1837 the manufactured products of this territory was practically nothing. In 1895 these products amounted to $218,000,000.

"We have in this state now, over 6,000 miles of railroad all of which has been constructed within the last sixty years. The school buildings and property now in the state are of the value of about $7,000,000, while the property of the churches and religious societies amounts to about $14,000,000.

"Many other estimates might be given to show the enormous growth of this territory and state during its life of sixty years, but those already given are sufficient to demonstrate that the Giver of all good has been wonderfully kind to us and that at the close of the sixth decade of the life of this territory and state, we all have as great reason to be profoundly thankful for growth and development, of any nation on earth.

"Many causes combined to work out these very satisfactory results, but chief among them was the high character of the early settlers of our state. Coming as they did, from many states and from many countries, they brought with them habits of industry, frugality and integrity. These habits combined with a salubrious climate, a fertile soil and a free government, have in the six decades that have passed since the organization of the territory wrought out results that have placed Wisconsin high in rank on the roll of states.

"When these early settlers adopted the great seal of state they emphasized the two ideas that most influenced them with reference to the temporal affairs of the new commonwealth, labor and congress. On its face they placed the implements of toil. On either side, supporting and protecting it, are representatives of labor upon land and sea, and above all is the motto, 'FORWARD.'

"Thus, the early settlers in this great seal, embodied and emphasized the ideas that were the foundation of the growth and development of this beautiful state.

"This seal brings us to a message that we may not disregard. We should be profoundly thankful to these early settlers whose wisdom, prudence and forethought have, in large measure, created the favorable conditions with which we are surrounded today."

Hon. E. W. Keyes, of Madison, was the next speaker, and his remarks were very interesting. He spoke in a reminiscent vein, and told of the hardships undergone by the hardy pioneers. William Smith spoke after Mr. Keyes, and was followed by Hon. D. F. Sayre, of Fulton. Mr. Sayre spoke most interestingly, and when he finished, J. K. P. Porter was introduced. Mr. Porter read a paper on the country's early history, and told numerous occurrences in a reminiscent mood, that were of great interest. Smith's orchestra played for the dancing. Among the old settlers who attended were:

John Ehle, Samuel Clemons, A. C. Thorpe, J. F. Willey, Charles Sexton, David F. Sayre, Ezra Goodrich, J. K. P. Porter, James Cleland, William Hodges, C. B. Shoemaker, Henry Woodstock, Robert Bear, Henry Hemming, E. H. Dudley, C. E. Brown, D. W. Watt, J. F. Bemis, Elmer Langworthy, Charles Gage, L. F. Wilcox, Charles Horn, F. F. Stevens, C. M. ## AN INSURANCE COMPROMISE

Western Union Takes a Milwaukee Proposition Under Adversity.

The governing committee of the Western Union is showing some inclination to recede from the arbitrary position it has maintained with regard to reducing fire insurance rates in Milwaukee and elsewhere. Secretary Cramer of the Milwaukee Mechanics' and Secretary Wollager of the Concordia were in Chicago yesterday trying to effect a compromise between the Western union and the non-union companies in the matter of commissions paid to agents. The non-union companies propose to pay their agents who also represent union companies, only 15 per cent commission, with the understanding, however, that their arrangements with agents representing only non-union companies shall remain the same.

The fact that the proposition was taken under advisement by the Western union is looked upon as a hopeful sign by the Milwaukee agents.

There was some surprise by the Milwaukee agents when it became known this morning that Messrs. Cramer and Wollager were in Chicago and it was said that if they made any propositions to the Western union governing committee, they did it on their own responsibility. They did not go as representatives of the Milwaukee board.

When asked if the Northwestern National approved of the compromise proposed, Second Vice President Jones of that company said: "We know of no compromise offered, except what was vaguely hinted at in the Chicago papers. We do not care to express an opinion on any hearsay matters. So far as I know, the situation in Milwaukee remains the same as it was last Friday. We are all awaiting developments. The Milwaukee board has voted to maintain the old rates and stand together."

Roy got beyond his depth and went down for the third time when Wilber Andrew, aged fourteen bravely dived and brought him to the surface and saved his life. The boy was lying on the bottom of the creek, unable to move, when rescued.

President Throne and the other officials are getting the work of the society well in hand and the next six months promises a continued advance in all departments of Christian Endeavor. Notwithstanding the excessive heat, large congregations greeted Pastor McCaw at the Baptist church last Sunday morning and evening and he rewarded them by the delivery of two powerful discourses. A "bicycle census" shows that Afton contains nine wheels and that five of the number belong to the fair sex. Before the summer is over there will be others. The oat harvest is occupying the attention of our farmers this week, and soon the hum of the threshing will be heard in the land. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Waite were up from Waukegan, Ill., for a brief visit with Afton relatives Sunday. Miss Mattie Waite accompanied them home for a few weeks' visit. Miss Helen Merrifield, of Milwaukee, was a guest at Superintendent David Thorne's this week. Colonel Theodore W. Goldin and family shook the dust of Janesville from their feet long enough to spend Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Humphrey at "Oakwood Farm."

Miss Lizzie Brown, a former teacher in the school for the blind, has returned from an extended western trip and is visiting relatives in this vicinity. Mr. and Mrs. L. J. McCrea left Wednesday morning for an overland trip to Hebron, Ill., where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blunk. The Modern Woodmen met in regular session next Saturday evening. Another new application for adoption was presented at the last meeting. Miss Stella Severson and Masters Charles and George Severson of Evansville, were the guests of their aunt, Mrs. George Osgood, Sunday. Mrs. George W. Crossman and son Charles of Janesville, and Professor Robert J. Eddy of Beloit, were among the visiting contingent attending Sunday morning services at the Baptist church. Has Janesville's now famous Midwinter fair totally eclipsed Rock county's annual pumpkin show? What are we to do for this fall anyway?

Barkers Corners Gossip.

GOLF PICNIC WAS A SUCCESS

Nearly Fifty Enjoyed the Supper—Record Broken by F. E. Fife.

Nearly fifty golfers took supper on the veranda of the club house at Buckleton links last evening. The afternoon was spent on the course, and the record of the links was lowered by Alderman Frank E. Fife, who made the round of nine holes in 54 strokes, a score made more remarkable by the fact that the first hole, Bunker Hill, cost him eight, and the fifth hole, Profanity, cost him twelve.

In match play for positions in the first eight, Rev. W. H. Wotton beat Charles Schaller one hole on the first round. Another round will be played later.

Many ladies played during the afternoon, and some creditable scores were made.

THE CROPS ARE FLOURISHING

Weather Conditions Have Been Especially Good, The Reports Say.

The weather during the past week has been much cooler than the week previous, and being generally clear and dry, furnished the ideal conditions for haying and harvesting and a continuation of the rapid growth of all crops. The rains of the previous week were generally timely, except in some portions of the northern section were well distributed, stored the soil with sufficient moisture to last several days although at the end of the week there was a few localities in which rain was needed, but this condition was by no means general. Scattered rains were reported during the past week, but were generally confined to small areas and light in character, except in the southwestern counties, where the precipitation was moderately heavy. Data although damaged in some places by the hot weather of the previous week and lodged to some extent by the heavy rains and high winds of the 10th and 11th, are generally a good crop, being well headed out and beginning to turn, so that cutting will commence in some portions of the state in a week or ten days. Rye harvest has begun in some localities and will be general in about ten days. The yield will be affected to some extent by the late frosts, but while the stand is rather thin the heads are well filled and nearly an average yield is indicated. Corn is still making good progress, although weedy, and is beginning to tassle. Early sown barley is nearly ripe and harvest will begin shortly. Haying progresses finely and another week will see most of the crop put away. Clover is still being harvested, although about finished in the southern and middle sections. Tobacco is making excellent progress and will be a good crop. Small fruits generally furnished an excellent yield, although damaged in a few exposed places by the late frosts. Gardens doing well. Potatoes are progressing rapidly, but there is considerable complaint of bugs.

The general tone of reports from counties where spring wheat is grown, indicates that the crop is a very good one, the stand being thick, the heads heavy and the grain plump and in excellent condition. Some counties report this cereal to be in the finest condition for a number of years. There is but little complaint of Hessian flies, rust or grasshoppers, and the indications now point to a very good yield.

DEALERS SHOULD ALL JOIN JANESVILLE MARKET PRICES

The Hardware Association Urge All Merchants to Take Membership.

Yesterday's session of the Wisconsin Retail Hardware association was called to order by President John Hughes of Fond du Lac in the club room of the republican house at Milwaukee. There was a good attendance and several papers were read, considerable informal discussion of trade questions was indulged in and several new members added.

The report of secretary C. A. Peck o Berlin showed that there were about 700 retail hardware dealers in the state. The membership of the association is something over eighty, and President Hughes took occasion at this morning's session to call attention to the necessity of recruits. The cause of the association was a common one, in which all dealers were interested. They made a most excellent start for the first six months of their organization and hoped the work would not lag. No extreme measure would be advocated, but hardware retailers had rights that the jobbers should respect, and he believed it only a question of putting the matter properly before the jobbers to obtain their hearty co-operation.

At the afternoon and night session yesterday the resolutions adopted at the February meeting, when the association organized, were read. The demand that manufacturers and jobbers confine the sale of goods to regular retailers, and each member is pledged to do all in his power to enforce this demand.

A resolution admitting traveling hardware salesmen to all privileges of membership, except that of voting, was adopted. A. H. Sheldon of this city, was the Janesville representative at this meeting.

THE SULTAN'S SERAGLIOS.

They Contain Some 4,000 Persons—The Household Order.

In the time of the sultan's predecessor the seraglio's buildings stretched along the banks of the Bosphorus for a mile and a half and contained some 4,000 persons, the household order and arrangement being much as they are at present, says the New York Tribune. The sultan's mother, when he has a mother, receives a servile obedience from all its inmates; then comes the hasnadar usta, or mistress of the treasury, generally a shrewd old woman, promoted from the ranks of the servants for her talent for housekeeping and gossip. If the sultan's valide dies, the hasnadar succeeds her. Under Abdul Medjid the seraglio was long ruled by a washerwoman, whose chief adviser was a baldad, or hewer of wood, who could not read, but had the power of dismissing viziers. The sultan's four kadines come next, who rank as spouses till he divorces them and marries them to some of the pashas. Then there are five or six ikbals, or favorites; then the guizevedes (from guineu, eye—girls who have attracted the master's glance). Every woman who marries from the seraglio takes with her, besides a large portion in cash, her clothing, jewels, furniture, carriages and servants. After them come the kadines-effendis, the mothers of the sultan's children; then the unmarried princesses of the royal blood, then the foster mothers and foster sisters of the sultana or princesses. Among the attendants are chamberlains, secretaries, guards, eunuchs, scullions, cooks, pages, musicians, dancing girls, dwarfs, buffoons, priests, astrologers, barbers and shampooers, tasters of the sultan's food, athletes, cock fighters, ram fighters, jugglers, and grooms to look after the 500 horses contained in the imperial stables. Tales of victory from the Thessalian mountain passes now thrill this extensive household, making it buzz and hum like a swarm of Paphlagonian bees; its note of exultation is likely to strike into another key whenever the inconstant bird of victory changes its perch from one standard to the other.

ALASKA AND STARVE.

The fables of 49ers will do much indirectly to start prospectors for Alaska. But the 49ers themselves should be the last to advise such a course.

Gold at the headwaters of the Yukon is a different matter from gold in the sunny and fruitful valleys where the 49ers wrestled with fortune. The Klondike diggings are in a remote, arctic waste, where winter lasts five months, and the soil will not grow even a turnip. A journey of nearly a thousand miles is necessary after leaving the coast, with much tramping over mountains where nothing but a trail exists. All food must be transported to the mines and at present consists chiefly of bacon and beans. Mosquitoes are a terrible pest all through Alaska. They kill even the bears after blinding them. Gold is more deeply covered than was the case in California and the depth to which the ground is frozen greatly adds to the labor of getting down to the gold bearing stratum. A miner must spend several hundred dollars before reaching the diggings, and only a few months in the year are available for travel and mining operations. A robust man with a capital of $1,000 might make the trip with reasonable precaution, and even he, in most cases, would live to regret having got loose from the comforts and opportunities of his former home. As for the eager gold seekers who go without adequate means and equipment their sufferings will form a terrible chapter in the story of the polar province.

DEBS AND HIS BILLS.

Why should Mr. Debs be censured for trying to make money out of the coal strike? Why should President Hatchford suggest coldly that Mr. Debs wants to make the strike last all summer so he can have a longer pull at the funds of the miners' union? What does such talk amount to, anyway? The coal strike was organized to raise wages; and Mr. Debs feels, doubtless, that he must set the example by raising a dollar or two for himself. The coal miners have no reason to complain. They are in luck that Mr. Debs has not charged them for his per diem while in the Woodstock jail.

An Eau Claire Elk just back from Minneapolis was frightened nearly to death by a meteor Tuesday; while a Michigan deacon who trotted around with the high-rollers of the B. P. O. E. in Minneapolis under the impression that he was attending the National Christian Endeavor rally at San Francisco, has been trying to serve Elk's Milk at a Sunday school picnic. The antlered brethren must have been subjected to strange influences during their brief stay in the Twin Cities.

The newspapers are encouraging many men to hunt for gold in Alaska who would find it quicker by turning over the soil of Wisconsin.

August is confessedly the vacation month of the year and usually the dulllest. Perhaps this year may be an exception.

The country always breathes freer after congress goes home.

"Have you ever noticed," said Senator Sorghum's friend, as they paused before a confectioner's window, "how much talent for sculpture these candy makers display in putting their wares in attractive form? There is a wonderful variety of shapes."

"Yes," replied the senator, pensively; "it has always interested me to note how much could be made out of sugar."—Washington Star.

THE COLORED BROTHER.

A Bad Tenant for the Southern Land lord.

The typical negro tenant arrives at a new home in a mule wagon or ox-cart with a bundle of rags, a frying-pan and a covey of children, and he stays with a landlord who may have saved him from destitution by advancing provisions and dry goods only so long as the caprice of the hour dictates, says Lippincott's. Land-owners who have sunk into financial ruin by mortgaging their property have nearly always been dragged into the slough by the effort to help their negroes out of it. The crop made by the average negro farmer is subject to many contingencies besides those of the weather. He does not hesitate to leave his field at the most critical season if pleasure calls him; "big meetings" he never can resist, and these take place during the important agricultural months of July and August, first at one church and then at another. After the mules have been working hard all the week in this busy season they are often driven ten to fifteen miles on Sundays, carrying wagonloads of men, women and children, long bright ribbons flying out from the heads of the female members of the family, whose hair has been tightly plaited and bound with cords during the week in order to produce a holiday sensation in an ample psycheknot at the back and a bushel-like roundness in front; they appear in fancy waists and big sleeves, and regale themselves and their friends with a dinner of fried chicken, cake and water-melons after the meeting, rags being good enough to wear, hoe cake and bacon good enough to eat during the week. Like his African ancestors, the American negro is miserable without jollifications and feasts. If he can have them he will do a hard job of work between times.

His Emergency Pocket.

For two days Grim has been getting his wheel in shape for the warm weather campaign. "I'm getting pretty well along in years," he said, in discussing the matter, "and was a little slow in accepting the bicycle as something to be encouraged, but now I come pretty near being a crank. I'm fixing this machine up as a jeweler would a watch. I know where every tool is and what it is for. But there's something else. See this little pocket here inside my bicycle coat? See how this strong strap of cloth buckles over it, and notice the lining of chamois. That's for money; an emergency fund that is never to be disturbed until I come face to face with the emergency. Now, I'll explain. Last summer I grew ambitious and made a long run into the country. I timed myself wrong and started home a trifle late. I was scorching through the main street of a little town out here when a big fellow rushed to the middle of the road, spread his legs like a colossus, threw his arms out and yelled, 'Halt!' I halted, and was promptly informed that I owed $2 for riding without a lamp. I tried to explain, but the big constable was not there for argument. Then I took the ground that he couldn't fine me and that I at least had a right to a trial. 'You're tried now,' he roared, 'an' found guilty! Didn't I ketch you at it? Is there any lantern hitched to that ole verlocipede of yours? You settle or go inter th' calerboose. You can't come 'round here tellin' me nuthin' 'bout the ordinances of this here corporation.' My chief trouble was that I had no money. I had left home with very little, and there are road houses on that route. After a long plea I got the officer to hold my bicycle for security till I could come to Detroit for money. Then I broke for the station, where there was a train soon due. But it came upon me like a 1,000-volt shock that it takes cash to ride on railroads. I left my $150 watch with the agent before I could get a ticket. If such a thing should occur again there will be money right here in this little pocket."—Detroit Free Press.

GIRL SHOE SHINER WANTED IN EAST

DAISY HURDLE THE CENTER OF INTEREST.

New York Journal Telegraphs to Janesville to Locate Her—An Interview With the Pretty Young Woman Who Is Brightening Bower City Understanding.

Brown-eyed, winsome Daisy Hurdle, the shoe polisher, has stirred up a sensation down east. The New York Journal is anxious to locate her, and others in New York have tracers out for the same purpose.

The Journal is most persistent in its quest, the first dispatch to The Gazette, received at 8:10 this morning, reading:

"Is Daisy Hurdle, shoe polisher, in your town? Please rush answer."

An exchange of messages brought out very few details concerning the young woman's history, but showed that somebody wanted her, and wanted her very much.

No wonder they want her, a good many susceptible young men would say after a brief interview with the winsome shiner.

There must have been plenty in Janesville who recognized her attractiveness. She has been here four days, and her opinion is that the average Janesville man needs considerable admonition and care. Some of them, she avers, are inclined to be just a little too conversational.

A Way That Is All Her Own.

Daisy Hurdle, if that be her name—she refuses to acknowledge it—was comfortably quartered at the Park hotel when a Gazette reporter called today. She is a trimly-built young woman, with brown hair and eyes, a neat figure, and a way that is all her own. It doesn't take much study to see why the average man finds it hard to refuse to buy shoe polish when Daisy Hurdle urges.

Daisy Hurdle—but is that her name? A flat denial is on record from the young woman herself. She is not registered at the Park.

"I wouldn't let my name be known for the world," she said emphatically. "I couldn't have my mother and father know I was roaming around the country this way, although I have no reason to feel ashamed of my work."

"If you want a name to call me by, why won't Annie Smith do? As for an account of myself I think I could give you enough information to fill a good sized book. In the first place you would at least call me fair looking and if any kind of a guesser of ages you would call me about twenty-two."

Knows All About Polish.

"When I was a little girl but five years of age I was put into a home to be cared for till I was fifteen. To outsiders this home is known as a boarding school where the rules are enforced. When released from this school I entered the employ of Whittemore the great shoe polish manufacturer, and in the capacity of stenographer I worked till my health failed. Then a physician said I must do outside work, and from that day to this I have been selling shoe polish to business men."

"Business has been good here in Janesville but the men in this town are a little bit too much on the flirt. In a great many places where I have been today they have asked me all kinds of unnecessary questions and only bought a box of polish at the last minute."

How About New York?

"Why do they want to know about you in New York?"

"I haven't the slightest idea, and I don't see why all this telegraphing has been done," was the peppy response.

Miss "Hurdle" is not the pioneer in her line. A year ago two young women engaged in the same work, paid Janesville a visit. They were sadly lacking in beauty and singularly enough they found the Janesville field a hard one to work. Not so with this young lady. See has been doing a land office business since her arrival on Sunday and has made more money than some stores eighty feet deep.

BATTERIES ON THEIR WHEELS

Two Riders Show Janesville The Advantages of Electricity.

Two Chicago wheelmen with electric lamps attached to their wheels, rode into the city yesterday afternoon and attracted much attention. They were O. E. Bloom and William Spangenberg, and they were on their way home from a tour of the state. On the cross or middle bar of each wheel the riders had attached small storage batteries which occupied about as much room as their tool cases, and which so ved to furnish the current for their lights.

GET NO MORE STRAWBERRIES

The strawberry season is over, and the growers in this vicinity report a poor business, when compared to that of last year. The crop this year fell short, while the quality has not been up to expectations.

"The most discouraging thing," said a prominent grower, "has been the ruinous prices that have prevailed. With good strawberries selling at three cents a box, there is no money in the business."

MR. SOUTHWORTH QUOTES B. F. MILLS

ALL SOULS PASTOR AND THE EVANGELIST.

Letter to the Congregationalist is Used as the Basis For a Plea For More Liberty in Theological Matters—A Communication to Janesville People.

Rev. B. Fay Mills' recent departure has caused much comment in Janesville. The text of his letter has not been printed here, and the following communication from Rev. V. E. Southworth, which includes Mr. Mills' letter will be found of interest. Mr. Southworth writes to the Gazette from Greeley, Colo., July 22, '97. Dear Friends and Neighbors of Janesville—

Somehow I have found many of you unable to see much good in the religious movement which for more than two years I have officially represented in your midst.

Here is a careful statement from one whom many of you know and respect. I trust you will read and consider it. It may be it will help you to see how foolish and unkind many of your prejudices have been. Always heartily,

VICTOR E. SOUTHWORTH,

Rev. B. Fay Mills On His Own Theological Position.

To the Editor of the Congregationalist—My Dear Sir—In reply to your inquiry as to the truth of a report that I had practically identified myself with the Unitarian denomination, I would say that the report is not accurate. I am very glad to be able to preach, at Dr. Edward Everett Hale's invitation, to his congregation and others; and I think I would have cheerfully responded to such an invitation at any time in my ministry. But I would further state that I regard the action of the National Unitarian Conference at Saratoga, two years ago, in stating that the only platform of Unitarianism was "the religion of Jesus, as summed up in love to God and love to man," and that on this basis they invited the cooperation of all Christian people, as being sincere and comprehensive, and representing the high water mark in the statement of ecclesiastical formula. It seems to me as though that ought to comprehend us all, and that on this, their only acknowledged platform, the Unitarians merit the most hearty expression of fellowship from all who are worthy to bear the name of Jesus.

This I am delighted to express for myself; but it is your opinion that such an endorsement should disqualify me from membership in the orthodox Congregational ministry?

Thanking you for your courteous letter, I remain fraternally yours, BENJAMIN FAY MILLS.

WAGE SUIT WAS COSTLY

J. B. Munroe Pays $50 Because of a Disagreement With Help.

If J. B. Munroe of the town of Bradford had settled with his hired man, Charles Schripis, for the months' work that he did while in his employ he would have been better off today to the extent of about $34. Schripis, who sued in Justice Richardson's court for $16 wages, received judgment, the costs therefore falling upon the defendant. Judgment and costs together amounted to about $50.

Munroe, who is a well-to-do and respected farmer, refused to settle on the ground that he had a contract with the defendant to work six months for $96, but that Schripis after working a month quit and demanded what was due him. Smith & Pierce appeared for the plaintiff, while J. J. Cunningham represented the defendant.

ALL KINDS OF COAL TO BE HAD HERE

JANESVILLE HAS A PLENTIFUL
FUEL SUPPLY.

Street Cars Run Without Interruption and Factories Have No Fear of Being Hindered—Dealers Are Much Surprised At the Report of Shortage.

There need be no fear of a coal famine in this city for many days to come. The street cars will not cease to operate, nor will any of the local factories be obliged to shut down on account of the coal strike.

Coal is to be had in this city in hundred ton lots if necessary, and the shipment of soft coal here from outside points can be made in car load lots at a moment's notice.

In the local yards of the Northwestern road the large coal shed is now empty. No special effort has been made to fill it since the strike for the reason that it is just as handy at present to take coal from the cars.

Eighteen cars of coal were in the local Northwestern yards today and it is estimated that at least 125 more are between here and Chicago ready to be transferred at a moment's notice.

In the local St. Paul yards the coal shed today contains 200 tons while nine well filled cars were to be seen on the side tracks.

One of the Janesville Machine Company officials said today that they were not in the least worried, having an ample supply of fuel on hand.

E. M. Hyser of the Janesville Water Company said the company had plenty of coal on hand and that no anxiety was felt in regard to running short.

Peter E. Neuses of the Janesville Coal Company says there is enough coal in the city now to supply all those who are in need of it and more can be brought in here from Sheboygan at a moment's notice.

The street car company has all the coal on hand that is needed, and three cars, were set aside to be put on the power house side-track.

An attachment was sued out today by the Nicholas Kubner Company, cigar dealers of Davenport, Ia., for $412. The firm of Isaac W. and Bernard Bernhe'n also filed a claim through their attorneys, Smith & Pierce.

COMMON SENSE CURE.

Pyramid Pile Cure Cures Piles Permanently by Curing the Cause.

Remarkable Remedy Which Is Bringing Comfort to Thousands of Sufferers.

Probably half the people who see this article suffer from piles. It is one of the commonest diseases and one of the most obstinate. People have it for years and yet because it is not immediately fatal they neglect it. Carelessness causes no end of suffering. Carelessness about so simple a thing as piles has often caused death. Hemorrhages occur from no apparent cause and loss of blood causes death. Hemorrhages occur during surgical treatment, often causing death.

Piles are simple in the beginning and easily cured. They can be cured even in the worst stages, without pain or loss of blood, quickly, surely and completely. There is only one remedy that will do it—Pyramid Pile Cure.

It allays the inflammation immediately, heals the irritated surface and with continued treatment reduces the swelling and puts the membranes into good, sound, healthy condition. The cure is thorough and permanent.

Here are some voluntary and unsolicited testimonials that we have lately received: Mrs. M. C. Hinkly, 601 Mississippi St., Indianapolis, Ind., says: Have been a sufferer from the pain and annoyance of Piles for fifteen years, the Pyramid Pile Cure and Pyramid Pills gave me immediate relief and in a short time a complete cure.

Major Dean, of Columbus, Ohio, says: I wish to add to the number of certificates as to the benefits derived from Pyramid Pile Cure. I suffered from Piles for forty years and from itching piles for twenty years and two boxes of the Pyramid Pile Cure has effectually cured me.

Most druggists sell Pyramid Pile Cure or will get it for you if you ask them to. It is one dollar per package and is put up only by the Pyramid Drug Co., Albion, Mich.

Maud Trevor was a genuine woman and kept her accounts with the aid of six purses. One was an ancient housewife of her grandmother's, which used to be equipped with silk and thread and needles and buttons, and from a secret place yielded to the third generation a bank note of value. This capacious receptacle was evident y intended for the household exchequer, whose transactions were innumerable and whose monthly budget depended for success on an un-failing supply of copper. Another had come from her mother and was of obso-lete design—a bag closed at both ex-tremities, with a long, narrow slip in the middle and two rings which com-pressed the gold into one end and the silver into the other. This was marked out by Providence for charity, since it made no provisions for pennies and laid a handicap of inconvenience on three-penny bits. It retained a subtle trace of an old fashioned scent her mother loved and recalled her mother going out on some errand of mercy—a St. Clare in her sacrifices and devotion. Purse three descended from her father and was an incarnation of business—of chamois leather with a steel clasp that closed with a click, having three compart-ments within, one of which had its own clasp and was reserved for gold. In this bank Maud kept the funds of a clothing society, whose more masterly bargains ran sometimes into farthings, and she was always haunted with anxiety lest a new farthing and a half sovereign should some day change places. A pretty little purse with ivory sides and silver hinges—a birthday gift of her girl-hood—was large enough to hold her dress allowance, which Trevor had fixed at a most generous rate when he had barely £400 a year and had since for-gotten to increase. One in sealskin had been a gift of engagement days and held the savings of the year against birthday and Christmas presents—whose contents were the subject of many calculations. A cast off purse of Trevor's had been devoted to Bertie, their only child, and from its resources came, one way or other, all he needed, but it happened that No. 6 was constantly re-enforced from the purse with the ivory sides.

Saturday forenoon was sacred to book-keeping, and Maud used her bed as a table for this critical operation, partly because it was so much larger than an escrutoire, but chiefly because you could empty the purses into little pools with steep, protecting banks. Of course if one sat down hurriedly there was great danger of amalgamation, with quite hopeless consequences, and Trevor held over Maud's head the chance of his making this mistake. It was his way, till he grew too busy, to watch till the anxious face would suddenly brighten and a rapid change be made in the pools—the household contributing some-thing to presents and dress purse to Ber-tie, while private and public charity would accommodate each other with change. Caresses were strictly forbidden in those times of abstruse calculation, and the evil one who stands at every man's elbow once tempted Trevor to roll the counterpane into a bundle—purses, money and all—but Maud, when he confessed, said that no human being would be allowed to fall into such wickedness.

Trevor was obliged to open her ward-robe 14 days after the funeral, and the first thing he lighted upon was the purses. They lay in a row on an old ac-count book—a motley set indeed—but so absurd and tricky a spirit is pathos that they affected him more swiftly than the sight of a portrait. Was ever any one so faithful and conscientious, so self forgetful and kind, so capable also and clever in her own sphere? Later he had sneered at the purses, and once, being vexed at something in a letter, he had told Maud she ought to have done with that folly and keep her accounts like an educated woman. "A girl of 12 would be ashamed." What a merciless power memory wields! She only drooped her head—it was on the sealskin purse the tear fell, and he saw the bend of the Wye at Tintern where he had sur-

They lay in a row on an old account book, prised her with that purse. He was moved to kiss away that tear, but his heart hardened. Why could she not be like the women he knew? Well, he would not be troubled any longer with her simple ways—he could do as he pleased now with the purses. A bitter madness of grief took possession of him, and he arranged them on the bed.

One was empty, the present purse, and he understood—the dress purse, of course, a little silver only—the rest had gone that he might have something beautiful. He knew that it must be done sooner or later, and today was best, for his heart could be no sorer. Yes, here they were, the ungiven gifts. For every person, from himself to the nurse—all wrapped in soft white paper and ready in good time. But he must open it—an inkstand for his study in solid brass, with pens and other things complete—he noted every detail as if to estimate its value. It came back to him how she had cunningly questioned him about his needs before he left for Cannes till he grew impatient. "Don't bother me about ink bottles." Yes, the very words and others—the secret writing of memory came out in this fire of sorrow. "Why won't women understand that a man can't answer questions about trifles when he has work on hand?" He could swear to the words, and he knew how Maud looked, although he did not see.

"Don't go away. You promised that you would sit beside me when I worked—hinder me? I suppose you are bidding for a kiss. You know the sight of your face inspires me." That was ten years ago—he might have borne with her presence a little longer. She never would come again—he would have no interruptions of that kind.

Her gloves, sixes—what a perfect hand it was (smooths out the glove). His memory brings up a dinner table. Mrs. Chatterby gives her opinion on Meredith's last novel and helps herself to salt—she sees a disgusting hand, with stumpy fingers and for impudence a street arab of a thumb. A vulgar little woman through and through, and yet because she picked up scraps from the monthlies and had the trick of catch-words people paid her court. And he had sometimes thought, but he knew better today—of all things in the world a glove is the surest symbol. Mended, too, very neatly—that he might have his hansom.

It was the last thing he ever could have imagined, and yet it must be a diary—Maud's diary. Turns over the leaves and catches that woman's name against whom he has suddenly taken a violent dislike.

"January 25.—Was at Mrs. Chatterby's—how strange one does not say any-thing of her husband, yet he is the nicer of the two—and I think it will be bet-ter not to go again to dinner. One can always make some excuse that will not be quite untrue.

"The dinner is in honor of Mr. Fynical, who is leaving his college and coming to live in London to do literary work," as Mrs. Chatterby has been ex-plaining for weeks, "and to give tone to the weeklies."

"The younger men are quite devoted to him, and we ought all to be so thank-ful that he is to be within reach. His touch reminds one of—I don't know the French writer, but she does not al-ways give the same name. We hope to see a great deal of him. So delightfully cynical, you know, and hates the bour-geoisie."

"I was terrified lest I should sit next Mr. Fynical, but Mrs. Chatterby was merciful and gave me Janie Godfrey's father. Edward says that he is a very able man and will be lord chancellor some day, but he is so quiet and modest that one feels quite at home with him. Last summer he was yachting on the west coast of Scotland, and he described the sunset over the Skye hills, and I tried to give him a Devonshire sunrise. We both forgot where we were, and then Mrs. Chatterby asked me quite loud, so that every one looked, what I thought of 'Smudges'."

"The dinner table seemed to wait for my answer, and I wish that the book had never come from the library, but I said that I had sent it back because it seemed so bitter and cruel, and one ought to read books which showed the noble side of life.

"You are one of the old fashioned women," she replied. "You believe in a novel for the young person," with a smile that hurt me, and I told her that I had been brought up on Sir Walter Scott. I was trying to say something about his purity and chivalry, when I caught Mr. Fynical's eye and blushed red. If I had only been silent, for I'm afraid every one was laughing, and Edward did not say one word to me all the way home.

"February 20.—Another ordeal, but not so unfortunate as the last. The Browne-Smythes are very kind friends, but I do think they are too much con-cerned about having clever people at their house. One evening Mrs. Browne-Smythe said she was happy because nothing had been talked about except translations of Homer. A certain guest was so miserable on that occasion that I begged Edward to leave me at home this time, but he said it would not be Greek again. It was science, however, and when we came in Mrs. Browne-Smythe was telling a very learned look-ing person that she simply lived for fossils. A young lady beside me was talking about gases to a nervous man, who grew quite red and tried to escape behind a table. I think she was wrong in her words, and he was too polite to correct her. To my horror, he was obliged to take me in to dinner, and there never could have been two people more deserving of pity, for I was ter-rified of his knowledge, and he was afraid of my ignorance. We sat in perfect si-lence till a fatherly old man, quite a farmer, on my left began to talk to me so pleasantly that I described our coun-try people and was really sorry when the ladies had to leave. Edward says that he is one of the greatest discoverers in the world and has all kinds of honors. We became so friendly that he has promised to take tea with me, and I think he does not despise my simplicity. How I long to be cleverer for Edward's sake, for I'm sure he must be ashamed of me among those brilliant women. I cannot blame him. I am proud of my husband.

"May 15.—I am quite discouraged and have resolved never to go to any chari-table committee again. Miss Tabitha Primmer used shameful language at the Magdalen meeting today, and Mrs. Wood-Ruler showed me that I had broken law 43 by giving a poor girl per-sonal aid. It seems presumptuous on my part to criticize such able and dili-gent workers, but my mother never spoke about certain subjects, and it is agony for me to discuss them. When the vicar insisted on Sunday that

THE GREELEY COLONY.

Earnest Men and Women—Industrial Independence and Social Equality.

In considering the net results of Greeley colony it is first important to note that it has been thoroughly suc-cessful, says the Atlantic. It presents a striking contrast to the Fourier ex-periments, from which it may be said to have descended. Each man prospered according to his merit and what the community undertook to do by means of co-operation it accomplished. It cannot be said that the latter principle was applied extensively. The capital realized from the sale of property was so largely absorbed in the construction of canals as to leave little surplus for other industrial and commercial enter-prises. If one-half of this capital had been available for stores, banks and small industries, it is likely that much which was necessarily left to private initiative would have been undertaken by the colony. In that case we should find broader lessons in co-operative effort than we do now. It is also impor-tant to note that the community owed its prosperity to its high ideal and un-compromising public spirit. There was here no common religious tie, as in the early New England colonies; no shadow of persecution such as that which bound the Mormon pioneers together in an indissoluble brotherhood. The nearest approach to this influence was the prohibition sentiment, and this formed but a small part of the original plan. These colonists were earnest men and women, who had gone forth to make homes where they could combine industrial independence with social equality and intellectual opportunity. They were grimly determined to ac-complish what they had undertaken. This spirit and this alone kept them from going to pieces during the first five years and laid the foundation for their permanent prosperity.

THEY CUT NO ICE.

Just Fooled the People with a Big Chunk of Plain Glass.

"It must take lots of money to fur-nish the ice you use for cooling water," a gentleman remarked to one of the "candy butchers" with the circus as the "butcher" was dealing out real wa-ter from a tank at 5c per deal. It was a hot afternoon and sweltering human-ity was gladly enriching the coffers of the "butcher," who by way of varia-tion, had scattered a few lemon rinds in the fluid and was assaulting the English language by crying "Lemon-ade!"

"Well, rather," was the reply, "we use tons of it every day—I don't tink."

But the last remark was not over-heard and the "butcher," to borrow from his vernacular, "coughed up" to a reporter.

"W'y, dese mugs mus' tink we's mil-lionaires," he began, with a look of disgust.

"W'y, w'en a show comes to town every plug in de metropolis is awake with bot' bitts out, 'cause dey know de circus folks got to get stuff dey need, an' get it quick. See? Well, de ice man wouldn't do a ting to us, but me an' me pardner, over dere, after two seasons, tumbled, an' we got onto de greatest scheme you ever see. Tink dat's lee?" and he pointed to a great glittering square sitting in the tank and rising above the fluid 6 inches. "I should say not," he continued, "dat's glass. See? It cost us $16 when we had it made, but we've saved $1,600. Dese people wot come to a circus never come back twice de same year, an'—Yes, sir; ice-cold lemonade," and the "butcher" dropped another nickel into his cash box as the crowd surged on.

May is not, as a rule, a pleasant month. It is a transition stage. It is a month which keeps you wondering from day to day whether it is safe to get into summer clothing yet and, the change being once made, you have no more doubt in the matter, for you come home in a snow storm. It is a month of budding hawthorn and threatening influenza, of cuckoos and catarrhs, of May-poles and mustard plasters.

Woman's World

The least worn, like the least said, is soonest mended. But this fact is of little assistance to a writer who is supposed to tell mothers what to put on their children in the dog day months when how much to leave off. However, there are many articles that are conducive to the health and enjoyment of the little ones which in the sultry days will interest parent and child more than silk and furbelows.

For instance, everybody does not go to the seashore, and besides baby cannot go into the surf, and all country homes are not supplied with bathtubs. But baby can have one "wherever she goes," for it can be packed in mamma's trunk, and it will give the little one more enjoyment on a hot day than any other means can afford. A picture of this ideal bathtub is here given, and it may interest many mothers to know that it is the invention of a trained nurse who has spent the greater part of her life in caring for infants, and who, therefore, understands what is good for them.

The tub is made of pure white rubber, soft and pliable and perfectly free from wrinkles. A pretty frame of antique oak or cherry holds the tub, and a smooth, hard rubber faucet attached to the bottom makes a convenient outlet for the water. Toilet pockets of rubber, daintily trimmed with ribbon, and a tiny pin cushion decorate one end of the tub, while the other end boasts a folding towel rack for holding baby's clothes.

For baby's sponge bath is provided a wicker washstand, tastefully trimmed, and fitted with a double sponge basin for hot and cold water, a toilet pitcher, powder box and soap dish.

Besides baby's cradle, which nowadays is of wicker draped with silk and point d'esprit, it must have an Egyptian basket to be carried in from room to room. A large hood protects the head from draft, and resting upon the downy pillow and tufted blankets the little one will often find its way to slumber land.—New York Tribune.

Women's Meetings.

Those of us who belong to clubs and societies—and what woman does not nowadays?—are often struck with the remarkable waste of time in the meetings of women's boards and committees. It is not that the members are generally unpunctual—one or two unbusinesslike members, of course, can always be counted on to arrive from ten minutes to half an hour late, but as the meeting commences without them they are the only ones that lose the time. No, the waste is in the number of hours spent in doing what might be thoroughly and completely done in half an hour if only irrelevant suggestions, tedious discussions and useless business were ruled out. Why is it necessary for a committee meeting once a month and having several able subcommittees to spend an entire morning from 10 to 1 o'clock discussing not only what has been done and what is to be done, but also, with infinite particularity, what might be done, what had better not be done and what other clubs in other circumstances find it wise to do? This is not a fancy picture. How often one hears the familiar dialogue between two women:

"You did not get to the meeting this morning."

"No. I knew it would take the whole morning, from breakfast to lunch, and I could not spare three hours of the best part of my day. What did you do?"

"Oh, about the same thing as usual. We heard committee reports, and the regular order of business, and—well, then Mrs. B—talked about new members (what she always says, you know), and we had a discussion as to when the dues ought to be paid."

"Why, we discussed that in joint session two months ago, and I did think it was settled."

"Yes, but we had it all over again this morning, and then that old subject, the rentals of the assembly room, took up the rest of the time."

"That! Why, it was referred to the committee on rentals, with power to act, long ago!"

"It was all reopened this morning, anyway."

"What did the board decide?"

"Oh, they referred it back again to the committee on rentals, after all."

And so it goes. We spend precious time wastefully, lay ourselves open to criticism and accomplish no more—nay, not as much as an hour of concentrated, clear, direct attention to business would effect.

It is all very well to say that congress, where there are no women, does very much the same sort of thing. It is each congressman's daily work, to which he must make all other occupation subservient, and besides, since women claim superiority, why not make a beautiful object lesson right here in a field open to us all?—Harper's Bazar.

Powder and Patches Again.

It will no doubt please the women who are never satisfied with the color of their own hair to know that powdered hair is again to be in vogue—not, of course, for daily wear, but for dinners and all manner of dressy functions. The effect is one that women have always liked to emulate, and its appearance in 1897, together with a host of other revivals, will be hailed with delight.

Patches are, of course, the natural accompaniment of powdered hair, and they have not been forgotten. The lady whose white locks are piled coquettishly on top of her head plans a pretty contrast by scattering half a dozen little black patches over her cheeks and brow. The effect is still further helped out if she chances to have dark eyes and eyebrows that are slender, dark curves. No French marquise of olden time could look daintier than the dame who manages her powder and patches aesthetically.

Women who have suffered from hair of that grayish brown peculiar to American soil will rejoice in the opportunity to conceal their uninteresting locks beneath this pretty artificiality, while for the woman whose hair gleams with peroxide there could be no more providential method of escaping from the thralldom of her self imposed torture. Plaided hair is trying to the most optimistic of beauties, and the peroxide that does not eventually produce plaid is rare.

Coiffures are of course suffering somewhat of a change, consequent to the introduction of powder and patches. Plaits or coils at the back of the head are not admissible when the hair is powdered. The hair must be brought to the top, lightly coiled in a moderately high structure and the front hair waved and pompadoured. A feature that particularly recommends this fashion is that it is almost universally becoming.—New York World.

The Summer Dining Room.

It is useless to put up screen doors at the entrances and at the windows to shut out flies if you invite them by negligence of the laws of cleanliness. It is just as easy to clean up the breakfast and dinner table and brush up the floor at once after the meal and darken the room as it is unwise to let the table stand in the glare of light to invite the flies. If the table must wait for those who are not punctual to their meals, it should be carefully covered with a square of cheesecloth and the room darkened. No hot foods or meats that will attract flies should stand in this way, but should be kept hot on a plate set in hot water, covered with an inverted bowl and left in the oven. If the habit of sitting down to the table punctually be insisted upon and the food of those who are late is set aside to keep warm without waiting for them, it will save the house from the presence of many flies and help to keep the routine of work in order.

The garbage pail and cleaning clothes are a fruitful cause of the presence of flies. The only garbage bucket that should be tolerated is a covered one. The buckets for this purpose are made of galvanized iron, with a cover. This bucket should be scrubbed out with sal soda and boiling water systematically on the inside and outside and thoroughly rinsed. There is no excuse for the presence of dishes of uncovered food of any kind in the kitchen. As soon as fruit is brought in it should be covered and set away. The habit of covering fruit with a wire cover while it is being prepared for the table will save the house from the presence of many of those useful but annoying little scavengers. In short, make and keep all your premises as clean as possible before you hang up fragrant clusters of bush clover to drive away the flies or put up wire screens, and neither expedient will be needful unless always the near presence of neighbors who are less careful necessitates the screens.—Philadelphia Times.

The Harmfulness of Summer Girls.

A summer girl is not half so serious a business as a platonic affair, though her varieties, excuses and fritterings slowly bereave men of any notion of steadfast affection and rational enjoyment. She fastens like a parasite on the tender college youth and adores his fresh, young manliness. She leads him a jig in the dance of his feelings, too wary to accept more than bonbons, and ready to hold him in leash as a brother when he runs to sentiment. One or two such experiences teach him in turn, as he grows older, the art of flirtations fencing and of breaking off in the middle of a declaration. At the end of a season his vanity has not been hurt by a refusal, and her conscience consoles her for not having brought him to the point. When he has re-established his good opinion of himself, he finds he has lost his zest for a lengthy marriage, thinks less of girls and more of his mother, and settles down as a bachelor, ready again for any test of his emotions which will not culminate in the fixity of feeling requisite for a wedding. One could moralize over the harm these experienced summer girls inflict upon ideals of honor and loyalty if they themselves were not so capriciously bewitching, and from an economic point of view so much less expensive than wives. That they injure their "sex" does not disturb their fertility. Their reign is brief, and they care not that its injuries are lasting if they have got as much out of it as they could.

A middle aged bachelor who has had many summer girls is apt to allege as the reason of his single life that he could not find any one to marry him. His simplicity betrays itself, even if he is conscious to womanhood. What he means is that his summer girls have destroyed his ability to love but one person steadily.—Kate Garnett Wells in North American Review.

Keeping the House Cool.

"How best to keep the house cool in summer is a grave problem," writes Mrs. S. T. Rorer in the Ladies' Home Journal. "During the hot months the house is much more livable if artificial heat can be cut down to the minimum."

Use the stove early in the morning, prepare certain foods that will keep well and avoid the necessity of a big fire during the rest of the day. Bare floors are very much more pleasant in summer than straw matting, although the latter is preferable to carpets or rugs. Where one can command a water supply the house is measurably cooled by reducing the temperature of the pavement and grounds around by copious sprinklings. A goodly stream of new air should be allowed to sweep through the entire house morning and evening. The hot air of midday will condense quickly on cold walls and cause mold or dampness, consequently it should not be allowed to enter any portion of the house. All the rooms in the house should be kept scrupulously clean and neat.

"If the outside temperature is not appreciably lower at night than during the day, it is almost impossible to keep sufficiently comfortable to obtain necessary rest. The sleeping rooms may be cooled by placing in the center of each a tub two-thirds full of cool or, better, ice water. This will absorb the heat of the room in a few hours and will be found particularly helpful where there are children. If the heat continues during the night, the changing of the water will preserve an even temperature in the room. Air your cellars at night when it is possible. Close them at 9 in the morning, and they will be cool and dry the entire summer. Exceptions to this rule are on windy days, as the rapid motion of the air does not allow condensation. Keep the cellar perfectly clean and fresh. Frequent coats of whitewash with plenty of lime are of the greatest value in summer."

How did it happen

that the old-fashioned, laborious way of washing was ever given to woman as her particular work? It's an imposition on her. She ought to have had only the easiest things to do—and men, strong, healthy men, ought to have taken up this washing business. Now, here is a suggestion. In those families that still stick to soap and make their washing needlessly hard and unpleasant, let the men do that work. They're better fitted for it. In the families that use Pearline (use without soap) and make washing easy, let the women do it. They won't mind it.

in the column. Brigadier-General James N. Bartley, of Springfield, the ranking general of the National Guard, commanded the division. The Third brigade of the Illinois troops was commanded by General Andrew Welch, of Aurora.

Look for Work in Michigan.

Houghton, Mich., July 22.—Several hundred miners from the Ohio and Pennsylvania bituminous coal fields have reached here in the last few days in search of work, and report that thousands more are coming, drawn by reports of prosperity in the copper country. It is true that the local mines are working more men than ever before at the highest wages paid east of the Rocky Mountains, but there are already 2,000 idle men in the district, and the prospects for coal miners securing employment here are small.

Time to Call a Halt.

Farmhand—"I'm told that the workmen in towns and cities belong to an organization called Knights of Labor." Farmer—"Yes, big thing, too." Farmhand—"An' the country papers say the Farmers' Alliance has joined with 'em an' made a new union." Farmer (excitedly)—"Yes, sirree; biggest thing yet. I'm one. Now the hydra headed monopolies will bite the dust. Jest wait and see when we vote solid fer—." Farmhand—"Well, us farmhands hez concluded to form a union, too, and we want our hours reduced to sixteen a day." Farmer—"Eh? Wha—. Now, see here! This federation business is goin' 'most too far."—New York Weekly.

Ex-Senator Doolittle Ill.

Racine, Wis., July 22.—Ex-Senator James R. Doolittle lies at the point of death at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Burge, in Providence, R. I. Six weeks ago he left Racine for the East. Three weeks ago he was forced to take to his bed, and has gradually grown worse, until now all hopes of his recovery are past. Six months ago his health began to fail him.

Golfers in the South.

Although golf may be played all through the winter, as has been the case at Lakewood this year, many ardent golfers prefer to follow the swallows south of Mason and Dixon's line. There is a very smart colony at Aiken, S. C., this year, and the links at Hampton Roads have been played on regularly. These latter have the advantage of being within reach of the officers' quarters at Fortress Monroe, and there is much rivalry between soldiers and civilians.—Exchange.

WARM WEATHER SECRETS.

Water as hot as can be borne will take the sting from sunburn, then cold cream will heal it.

Rye flour dusted lightly over the affected parts is the greatest possible relief to those who suffer from prickly heat.

Frequent washings in warm water to which a little alum or a teaspoonful of vinegar has been added is a good remedy for uncomfortably moist hands.

A good toilet water should always be on hand in warm weather. A few drops of eau de cologne or violet water in the water used for washing will be found not only very refreshing but very sweetening.

A lump of magnesia is a blessing to those women whose faces shine from heat. Just rub the lump lightly on the glowing surface, allow it to remain on a short time and wipe off lightly. This will not clog the pores like face powder.

Powdered borax stirred into the warm water used in the proportion of one teaspoonful to a quart will keep the skin clear, white and soft and prevent excessive perspiration. No toilet table should be without a jar of it at this season.

Unless naturally curly, your beauty locks will straggle unbecomingly in damp weather or when hanging on a perspiring forehead; but if before doing them up they are wet with a very weak solution of gum arabic and warm water they will stay very much longer.

Bathe in warm instead of cold water. A bath in the latter feels more refreshing at the time, but the after effects of the former are much more lasting and better. Cold water promotes rapid circulation, thereby producing heat, while tepid water will leave the skin cool and moist.

Freckles "make life miserable" for many women these very sunny days. A lotion composed of a tablespoonful each of strained lemon juice, eau de cologne and rosewater well mixed together and applied night and morning will be found very efficacious for these little pests.

An old fashioned starch bag is a summer toilet necessity. Fill it with finely powdered starch, to which a little powdered orris root has been added, or, in fact, with any of the baby or talcum powders sold in the shops. It is delightful to dust this over the body after bathing.

For undue perspiration, or where an unpleasant odor is perceptible, bathe night and morning in soda and water, afterward rubbing lightly with diluted boracic acid, which is perfectly harmless. A few drops of ammonia in the water you are bathing your body with is good for this purpose. Never use this on the face; it is ruinous.

To Cure Constipation Forever. Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c. C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

A Record Breaking . . . . .

Wash Goods Sale...

All the season we have been telling you that Wash Goods were never cheaper, and it was a fact, for we made some very fortunate purchases, and were able to name some astonishingly low prices. Now prices have gone still lower, for mill agents and jobbers have been offering their remaining stock at half and third early season prices: As is usual when there is a good thing to be had, we got in on it; and today offer several remarkable Wash Goods. If you do not pay more than five cents a yard it will buy a dainty fabric which ordinarily retails at ten cents, and all other prices will obtain equally desirable values

FIRST is twenty-five pieces "Lotus Lawns," all white grounds, with neat figures, (these are not short lengths, nor end of stock, but are fresh new goods in full pieces) all you want of them, per yard--3 cents.

SECOND--Dimities in stripes, figures, scroll patterns, &c; all the desirable colorings; fifty pieces to select from. All on the counters, per yard--5 cents.

THIRD--150 pieces of the season's choicest wash fabrics, that have been retailed at 12 1/2 and 15c. Organdies and dimities, light and dark grounds; many that you have not seen before this season. They are all, per yard--7 1/2 cents.
